CEO STATEMENT

We have been a proud member of the United Nation Global Compact since 2014. When we joined the United Nation Global Compact, we incorporated the ten principles as an integrated part of our Code of Conduct. Therefore, the principles are a big part of our values and the way we run our organization.

At ProData Consult, we acknowledge and accept the responsibility that follows when you are a larger European company. We take our role of contributing to our local communities around Europe very seriously.

We continuously work hard to uphold our existing initiatives taken the past years, but we also put an ongoing effort into taking new actions to abide by the ten principles.

In 2018, we formulated and adopted a CSR policy, which is solely based on the ten principles.

With this annual report, we are proud to reaffirm our commitment to the ten principles of the United Nations Global Compact Initiative covering Human rights, Labour, the Environment, and Anti-corruption, and we urge other companies to do the same.

ENVIRONMENT

PRINCIPLE 7

Businesses should support a precautionary approach to environmental challenges.

PRINCIPLE 8

Undertake initiatives to promote greater environmental responsibility.

ACTIONS:

- We are delivering and contributing to a large number of IT projects focused around energy savings and eco-friendly technologies. This includes several large Scandinavian energy providers and public power suppliers, thus directly contributing to and being an instrumental partner in both the development and diffusion of new and innovative technologies directly benefitting our environment.
- We have a digital contract system making our contract flow 100% paperless.
- Internally, we recycle all paper.
- All our major vendors are certified CO2 neutral.
- 100% of our purchased groceries are organic.
- We are encouraging reduced printing, and we consider the environment in all outgoing mail from all employees, in all countries.

MEASUREMENT OF OUTCOME:

- All paper is recycled.
- An increased internal awareness about the environment and how we affect the environment in our everyday work has been created.
